

Cop Car Review

This was an odd movie. One cop leaves his cop car in the middle of a field. Two kids decide to take a joy ride and claim the car as their own. The rest of the movie is a chase with the cop trying to locate the car and what he hid in it.

Starring Kevin Bacon as the Sheriff who loses his car, I couldn't believe I was watching it. It seemed so stupid and some of it didn't seem well planned out by the writer. In one comment I saw on Youtube someone claimed it was Bacon's best work. I still hold to this day the his best work was Footloose with The Following being a close second.

For those that might be interested I'll post the link but it's not a movie that I recommend.